MANY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Gleaned From Various Sources—
Little Points Picked Up By Vigilant Reporters.

Miss Cora Barnes of Celarville paid us a visit yesterday.

Grandmother Bagley on South Richard Street was 89 years old last Tuesday.

Miss Margaret Ake of Washington, D. C., is visiting her cousin, Miss Fannie Ake, on South Juliana Street.

The Morris reunion will be held at Williams' Grove, near Everett, on Saturday, August 14. Relatives and everyone cordially invited to attend.

The debris on the square in front of the new postoffice building has been carted away and the building is receiving the hardwood finish and painting. It will likely be completed in the next six weeks.

We were pleased to receive the announcement of the wedding of Rev. Edgar E. Snyder to Nora Irene Forrer of Harrisburg on July 27. They will be at home after September 1st at 2448 North Sixth Street, Harrisburg.

The marble work for the new Trust and Bank building is being completed. The roof will be placed in the next two weeks and the interior finish will be started soon after. They hope to have this magnificent structure completed by September.

Miss Julia Lewis, vice chairman of the Philadelphia Suffrage Committee, was quoted in Monday's issue of the Public Ledger, as saying: "President Wilson, in the opinion of suffrage workers, has been decidedly hostile to our cause." I take off my Republican hat and make a low bow to President Wilson because he has not permitted the suffragettes to lasso him and lead him around like a prize calf at a county fair.—George M. Mann.

Town Councilmen Resigned

Ross Stiver, Patrick Hughes, Ed. D. Heckerman and John B. McLaughlin, Councilmen, resigned last week under threats from the coal dealers of Bedford. The Council decided last spring to put in a town scale to insure correct or guaranteed weights on coal and other deliveries made to the people of Bedford. They considered it a safeguard to the people in getting their money's worth besides giving a little revenue to the borough funds. The scales were purchased for $175 and the installing cost about $25, the total cost being about $200 instead of $500 as was reported last week.

Let the merits or demerits of the purchase be as it may, it seems to be a case of "you-pinch-me-and-I'll-pinch-you." Just why the coal dealers should object to this regulation is problematical. It would have been better to have a private individual to circulate the remonstrance. It would have shown up better for the coal dealers and for the coal dealers to take the initiative in "ousting" the Councilmen casts a little reflection on them also. There is plenty of meat for thought on both sides.

The Councilmen were not entitled to sit. There was no question about that. No member of a school board nor council can legally receive any profit from the body of people which he represents. The law is very clear on that point and school directors of the county should observe this point as well. They cannot contract with the board, of which they are members, for anything however small. To do so is a violation of the law and punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

Alexander Claycomb

Alexander Claycomb of Altoona died at the Altoona Hospital Thursday afternoon of last week of nephritis. He was born at Osterburg March 24, 1852. Besides his wife, he is survived by four daughters and two sons. He also leaves four brothers and two sisters: Jeremiah of Burgoon, O.; Emanuel and Henry of Osterburg; Jacob and Mrs. C. C. Roudabush of Altoona, and Mrs. John Ickes of Johnstown.

The funeral service was conducted at his late residence Sunday afternoon. Interment was made at Osterburg on Monday.

Mr. Claycomb was among the oldest grocers of Altoona, having been in business in that city for over twenty-eight years.

LIBERTY BELL COMING

Speeches by Able Parties—Autoists Will Meet the Suffragists at Schellsburg.

Bearing with it the hearty good wishes of thousands of voters from every county through which it has passed in its history-making tour of the State, the Woman's Liberty Bell will arrive in this county on July 31.

The bell, which is being transported on a huge motor truck, will be met at the county line by a delegation of Bedford suffragists, who will act as a guard of honor to it while it is in this county. Stops will be made and open air meetings held at the following places:

July 31, 4:30 p. m., New Buena Vista; 5:30 p. m., Schellsburg; 6 p. m., Bedford, spend night and Sunday. August 2, 7:30 p. m., Everett. Leave Bedford 10 a. m. for Fishertown 11, Osterburg 12 noon.

The speakers will be Miss Louise Hall and Miss Harriet E. Grimm, Hon. John M. Reynolds, Miss Mary Stewart. The chairman of the meeting will be Dr. Americus Enfield. Meeting at 8 p. m., Saturday.

At these meetings, the women speakers who are accompanying the bell, will explain its message and ask the help of the men of Bedford County to unfasten the chains which hold the great bronze tongue of the bell silent. The men's help is needed because the chains are not to be removed from the bell until the women of Pennsylvania are granted the right to vote. It is within the men's power to say just when that day shall be.

Bedford Band will furnish the music. Those wishing to go to Schellsburg to meet the bell will notify Mrs. Dr. W. F. Enfield.

Charles Smith

Charles Smith, a former resident of Belden but for the past eighteen years living in Berlin, died at his home at that place on Thursday, July 15, at the age of 73 years.

He was married to Miss Sarah Moorehead of Belden 45 years ago, who survives him, with two sons: Harry of Berlin and Charles of Eberslie, Md., and also two brothers, Emanuel of Bedford Township and Jerry of Portland, Ore. Mr. Smith was a well known cow buyer in this community and had many friends here.

Defiance

July 27—Howard Little of Pittsburgh and John Little of Harrisburg spent several days of last week with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Little, Jr.

H. C. McElwee, game protector for Bedford County, is attending a convention at Wilkes-Barre this week.

Miss Ethel M. Eyer of Huntingdon has organized a vocal music class in the Defiance school building, the same to meet for instruction each Thursday evening for ten weeks. It is to be hoped that all who possibly can will come out to these meetings.

Charles Fry is making improvements to his property on Main Street by building a porch and Edwin Lloyd is treating his already beautiful brick house to a coat of paint.

Before another report is sent in the Defiance Normal will have closed its sessions for this summer. By the close of next week we will know how many of the students will receive a license to teach.

The School Directors of Broad Top Township will have a meeting this Wednesday evening when they will pass on a plan for a new school building at Woodvale and possibly on an addition to the Riddlesburg building. They will no doubt also elect some teachers.

Bethel Park Campmeeting

BEDFORD SPRINGS DRAWS FORMER EUROPEAN VISITORS THIS YEAR

FASHIONABLES NOW "TAKING WATERS" AT "CARLSBAD OF AMERICA" WHO PARTOOK OF EUROPEAN SPAS OTHER YEARS.

Resort More Appreciated Than in Former Years.

Bedford Springs, Pa., July 28.—With Carlsbad, Marienbad, and the other famous Spas of Europe closed to tourists, those Americans who formerly sought health, rest, or social enjoyment on the other side, are finding Bedford Springs an excellent substitute for the German "baths."

In all its more than a hundred years of existence, Bedford Springs has never enjoyed a gay season than the present one. For just as in the case of the European health resorts, this famous American Spa is as noted for its social gayety as for its health-giving waters. Walks, rides and drives among the delightful scenery of the Allegheny foothills, vie with bathing, golf, tennis, and bowling as pastimes. Open air band concerts, morning and afternoon, with dancing every evening, add immensely to the gayety of the visitors.

The younger set, and those interested in sports, are at present on the qui vive in anticipation of the opening, August 17th, of the ninth annual tennis tournament for the championship of Southern Pennsylvania. This tournament, which is open to all, carries, besides the Bedford Springs Challenge Cup, handsome prizes for men's singles, mixed doubles, and consolation, in all events.

The management of the Bedford Springs Hotel predicts a prosperous season. And it is believed that many who visit Bedford Springs this year will return next season, after discovering that over-sea travel is not a necessity to the taking of beneficial waters.

The recent overhauling of the Lincoln Highway has placed Bedford Springs within a four-hours' automobile ride from Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia, two hundred miles distant, can be easily made in a day.

Daniel B. Berkheimer

Last Sunday morning Daniel B. Berkheimer, an elderly and respected citizen of Salemville, was found dead in bed at his home at that place. He was aged 68 years, nine months and 18 days. During the Civil War he served his country as a member of the 22nd Pennsylvania Cavalry. In 1874 he was united in marriage to Miss Hettie Otto of Osterburg, who survives him, with four daughters and one son, Park O., at home. Mr. Berkheimer was a faithful member of the Brethren Church at New Enterprise. He also belonged to Washington Camp No. 449, P. O. S. of A.

The funeral service was conducted by Revs. Roy Brumbaugh and D. T. Detwiler. Interment was made in the Seventh Day Baptist Cemetery near Salemville on Tuesday.

BIG CHICAGO STEAMER CAPSIZED

Lives of 2,500 People Endangered—1,500 Lost in Catastrophe Due to Overloading, Improper Ballasting and Grounding.

Last Saturday the Eastland, a large passenger vessel with 2,500 excursionists, capsized in the Chicago River, drowning about 1,500 of its merry cargo.

The vessel was sailing along heavily loaded and swinging side to side as if unmanageable when it suddenly turned over on its side and rested on the river bottom with its upper side of the vessel extending above water, but the sinking was so sudden that not many passengers had warning in time to get to the decks and many who were on the decks were floated away by the current and drowned. Life boats were of no avail.

The government is trying to locate the blame for the awful loss of life and in the testimony already given it appears that the vessel was much overloaded. Its carrying capacity was rated at 1,500 while it carried 2,500. More than that the steamer should not have been taken to deep water at all since the ship didn't have the proper ballast to keep her erect nor was there any possible way to allow inflow of water to give her this ballast on account of the improper adjustment of valves. More than this, the ship seems to have stranded on a shallow place which indicates that she grounded.

The government inspectors passed on the ship's ability in June and ordered her to sail with a capacity of 1,500 passengers and keep close the shore. These admonitions themselves point to the fact that the vessel was faulty on the June inspection. Secretary Redfield was ordered by the President to make the fullest investigation and he proceeded to the scene immediately to do personal work to fix the blame.

Lynn-Smith

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Smith, at Defiance, on Wednesday, July 28, Calvin Lynn of Defiance and Miss Mary Jane Smith were united in marriage by J. L. Tenley, J. P.

Mr. Lynn has been a lifelong resident of Defiance; a good, honest and industrious young man and for many years has been a trusted employee of the Colonial Iron Company at their Judith mines. The bride is a daughter of Francis A. and Sevilla Smith; a young lady that is a credit to any community in which she may reside.

The young people will make Defiance their home for the present.

A Friend.

Levi Gordon

On last Saturday while attending a Granger's picnic at Imler, Levi Gordon, a resident of Lincoln Township, below Pavia, came to his death very suddenly. While in attendance at the picnic Mr. Gordon seemed in splendid health and spirits. He seemed to be pleasant and enjoy the day with the rest. His son approached him to ask his father if he wished to contribute to the support of the band and ball team. He immediately noticed the father was affected and before he could assist him, he fell to the ground, quivered a little and expired. Heart trouble of which he has been suffering for a number of years was the cause, and it is thought the excitement and strain of the day were too severe along with the warm weather.

He was about 60 years old and leaves his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Lucinda Feather of King, Miss Sarah, a trained nurse, and Miss Laura at home, and three sons, James of Imler, Joseph and John, at home.

The funeral took place at Pavia Tuesday and was very largely attended. He was a member of the Reformed Church.

Mrs. Reuben S. Mellott

Mrs. Anna (Claybaugh), wife of Reuben S. Mellott, died at her home near Sipes Mill, Fulton County, Friday evening, July 16, of tuberculosis, aged 31 years. She is survived by her husband, two children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Claybaugh of Mattie; two sisters and one brother; Mrs. John T. Meakle of Celarville, Rt. 2, and Edna and Alvin at home.

The funeral service was conducted Sunday morning, July 18, at Siding Hill Christian Church by Revs. T. P. Garland and A. G. B. Powers. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

UNION TWILIGHT SERVICES

On the Public Square to be Continued Through Part of August.

That amid the frequent rains of the past two weeks, the weather conditions for Union Twilight Services for the last two Sunday evenings should have been so perfectly ideal seems like the smile of Providence upon these services. Perhaps the largest audience yet gathered for these services was that of last Sunday evening, when a special feature of the service was the large orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Samuel Koonz.

Rev. H. E. Wieand, who was to have been the speaker, having been called to Everett to officiate at an installation service there, furnished an acceptable substitute in the person of Rev. John Graefe, a young man soon to go as a missionary to India, under the auspices of the Lutheran Church. Rev. Graefe spoke from James 1: 22, "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves." His discourse was most practical and helpful, and well received by the large audience present.

Upon next Sunday evening Rev. G. W. Faus will be the speaker, and, owing to the earlier coming of the twilight hour, the services hereafter will begin at 6:45 instead of 7 o'clock.

Pleasant Time at Kilcoin's Grove

On Wednesday Bedford Springs Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held their annual picnic at Kilcoin's Grove. A number of members were absent whose presence was expected, but a jolly good time was enjoyed by all who were there. The exercises were begun by an exciting game of baseball by the ladies, the lineup being the "fats" against the "leans," and the "leans" becoming easy winners of the game. The men indulged in horseshoe pitching, and the committee then introduced a program of novel exercises which proved entertaining. The dinner, however, was the leading feature of the day's exercises and was of such character as few like Eastern Star ladies can produce; even "Pappy" Robinson's appetite seemed to be satisfied.

Considerable merriment was had as the company was leaving in the evening. While waiting for the train a shower of rain came up and but few were prepared for it; ducking under improvised shelter afforded amusement for those who had gone prepared for showers. James Kilcoin, who has charge of the "Grove," is extending his improvements this year by constructing a large and substantial building on the grounds, to be used as a dancing pavilion, for roller skating, etc. The under story is suited to sheltering automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilcoin are very courteous and obliging to their patrons and with the labor and expense which Mr. Kilcoin is putting upon the "Grove" he is deserving of the patronage of campers and picnickers who are looking for a good place for an outing.

Heretofore trains have been stopping at the grounds for the accommodation of picnickers, and should this concession be continued, Kilcoin's Grove will soon be regarded as an ideal spot for the purpose for which its hustling proprietor is fitting and preparing it.

Mrs. Henry Brant

Mrs. Hester Ann (Holler), wife of Henry Brant, died at her home near Buffalo Mills on Monday, July 26, aged 63 years and six months. Besides her husband, she is survived by eight children: W. Harvey, H. Jacob, C. Elwood, Upton C., Mrs. Catharine Turner, Mrs. Louise Corley, Mrs. Effie Downing and Miss Flora Brant. Six brothers are also living. Three children preceded their mother to the grave.

By the death of Mrs. Brant the community lost a good neighbor and friend, her husband a devoted wife, and her children a tender and loving mother. She was one who led a life consistent with her great faith in her Saviour. So while her loss is mourned all can feel assured that she is indeed "At Rest."

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Rose of Schellsburg, assisted by Rev. Miller of Mann's Choice. Interment was made at Trinity Church Cemetery, Dry Ridge.

How to Destroy Catarrh Germs and End Catarrh Forever

Catarrh, according to a noted authority, is a germ disease and the only way to cure it so it will stay cured and never come back to kill and drive out of your system the catarrh germs which have found lodgment there. When the germs go the catarrh will stop.

There is nothing better for destroying catarrh germs than breathing into your nose and lungs the pleasant, soothing, healing, germ destroying air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mey) made from purest oil of Eucalyptus and combined with other powerful healing, antiseptic and germ destroying ingredients. Hyomei penetrates and reaches the inflamed swollen membranes of your nose and throat, stops discharges, clears the passages and completely overcomes the disease by destroying its cause. For catarrh germs cannot live in your body after Hyomei reaches them. F. W. Jordan, Jr., and many other good druggists in Bedford and vicinity have long sold Hyomei on a positive guarantee of successful results or money back and find this generous policy pays.—Adv. 23 July 21.

Point

July 26—The oats crop this year is the heaviest that has ever been for a long time. One stalk pulled by Eugene Black from R. C. Smith's field measured five feet and ten inches in length and there were one hundred large grains of oats on the head. The whole field is remarkably good.

THE ICE BOX

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

The ice box is a necessity in hot climates for the preservation of milk and meat. Where there are infants and young children in the family the proper care of the milk requires ice in order that it may be kept at a sufficiently low temperature to prevent it from becoming a poison.

For the proper care of food during the hot weather cleanliness of the vessels and ice box is essential. The box should be cleansed thoroughly at frequent and regular intervals. The interior should be washed first with cold water and soap then rinsed with scalding water. The drainage pipes should be kept free from slime. Where a rubber tube is used to carry off the waste water this can be boiled without damaging it.

The ice itself should be thoroughly washed always before it is put into the box. Unless there is absolute certainty that the ice is made from filtered water or obtained from a source free of sewage pollution it should not be placed directly on food or in the drinking water.

Economy and health will both be served by placing the drinking water in a receptacle next to the ice. This will bring it to as low a temperature as is healthful. Cold drinks interfere with digestion and are a menace to health. They often arrest digestion and not infrequently produce death. Red meats should never be frozen or placed in contact with ice.

Scrupulous cleanliness will be repaid by the saving in food stuffs and the maintaining of their quality.

Diamonds

For centuries, India was thought to be the only country producing diamonds. In 1727 they were discovered in Brazil and in 1827 the first of the well known Kimberley mines in South Africa began operating. Since that time profitable mines have been opened in Australia and several extremely valuable diamonds have been found in the United States. The largest diamond ever found in North America was found near Manchester, Va.

Easy Way to Make Hair Attractive

Ladies who find trouble in properly or attractively arranging and dressing their hair should try using a little Parisian Sage twice daily for a while and note the remarkable improvement. Parisian Sage, which can be obtained from F. W. Jordan, Jr., or any drug counter, makes the hair soft, lustrous, fluffy and wavy, takes out the dull, lifeless appearance, dissolves the dandruff and stimulates the hair roots into healthy normal action. Instead of merely sprinkling the hair, it should be rubbed right into the scalp with the finger tips. Parisian Sage is a delightful treatment for both hair and scalp, cannot possibly injure the hair and is very inexpensive. 30 July 21. Advertisement.

Temperance

TO EDUCATE.

It is now being vigorously carried on in all parts of the country a special system is advisable. Dr. W. L. Anderson, in Chicago Daily News, puts this suggestion into words that are well worth passing on.

Tell the lumber men of Michigan, he says, how many thousands of drinking farmers will shingle their homes and barns or build new ones as soon as they "quit their meanness." Tell the shoe manufacturer of Massachusetts what it means to take all the bare feet of drunkards' children off the ground. Tell the iron men of Pennsylvania that new stoves will be needed in 100,000 homes when the saloon keeper ceases to get the money, and tell the miners they will have work all winter through getting coal enough to put into those stoves. Tell the wool growers of Ohio that everybody in this country is going to be wrapped in woolen and sleep under blankets when the blizzards blow, and the men no longer heat up with "liquid fire" in order to exterminate their families with atmospheric cold. Tell the cattle raisers of the West and stockyards men in Chicago that there is going to be beef on thousands of tables, where now there are a few cold potatoes. Tell the grocer he can sell for cash and say good-by to bad debts when the dimes no longer go into the saloon till. Tell the farmers there is going to be an unheard of demand for flour and meal butter cheese and eggs as soon as beer drinkers cease fostering that industry and begin filling out the hollow cheeks of wives and children.

ALCOHOL, SHOT AND SHELL.

The Reformer, a paper of Western Australia, writes of the effects of intoxicating drinks in the expeditionary force of that state as follows:

A little time ago 20,000 troops were medically certified as sound in mind and limb. Then alcohol began to put in its true work, and in a short time 2,000 of them, either for behavior or sickness, were dismissed. Their places were soon filled, but neither the citizens nor the soldiers had learned their lesson, and so whisky or beer was still regarded as the bond of good-fellowship, and the test of hospitality. Then came along pneumonia, that dread daughter of alcoholism. It was pneumonia in the camp, pneumonia at Albany, pneumonia on the sea, and pneumonia beneath the shadow of the pyramids. Some tardily recovered, others were laid beneath the turf or the wave before ever they saw the flash of Turkish sword or heard the burst of German bomb.

Alcoholism and pneumonia indeed can scarcely be separated, and the foremost physicians of England now are saying that they look upon the previous alcoholic condition of a patient as the arbiter of his life when attacked by pneumonia. This first blood in our war was drawn, not by the bayonets of the enemy, but by the folly of ourselves. The foolish hospitality of the people and the drinking dens of the state joined hands in destroying our defenders.

A NEW FAITH.

Although Maj. Dan Morgan Smith of Chicago was never personally addicted to the use of strong drink, yet he was for several years the able general counsel of the Model License league. He is now a zealous advocate of temperance, and thus writes: "Arguments that once seemed so plausible have failed me; for the foundation of my faith and the corner stone of my arguments was the failure of regulation and the success of prohibition. My faith is gone and my corner stone is displaced, my structure has fallen, and it remains for me to help build another, founded on a new faith, with a corner stone as enduring as the truth, and that faith shall be called Temperance, and the corner stone shall be Annihilation. I shall never make another speech in behalf of the Model License league. I am through with the wet side. My intelligence insists upon it; my conscience demands it."

FOR THE SAKE OF OUR BOYS.

A mother having expressed her regret at the lukewarmness of a certain preacher on the prohibition question, received the reply, "But, my dear woman, it is not necessary to urge it. It is right and is sure to come. It may be twenty or, perhaps, ten years, but what matters a few years, more or less?" "What matters a few years?" replied the mother with deep feeling. "If your boy or my boy are to be among those who will be ruined in the saloons in these ten or twenty years, it would seem a matter of infinite importance how soon the liquor traffic was exterminated."

LIKE-MINDED.

The Worth Brothers Steel Mills company, the Lukens Iron and Steel company of Coatsville, Pa., and the Florence Iron company of Florence, N. J., have prohibited the delivery of beer, whisky or any other intoxicating liquors to the homes of their employees, and all agents of breweries are prohibited from soliciting upon the premises.

Congressman Bailey's Reply to New York American

Johnstown, Pa., July 24.—Congressman Warren Worth Bailey received a telegram this morning from the New York American asking whether in his opinion conditions and circumstances justify this country in entering into the European war. The telegram in full follows:

New York, N. Y., July 23. Hon. W. W. Bailey, Johnstown, Pa.

Do you think that the conditions and circumstances justify this country entering into the European war or that every effort should be first exhausted to maintain peace? Do you think that the rights of neutrals should be defined by arbitration, as Germany suggests, or by a conference of neutral nations, or should these rights be defined by the United States alone?

Mr. Bailey tonight wired an emphatic expression to the effect that the resources of diplomacy have not been exhausted and that nothing has yet arisen which would justify this country in abandoning its policy of peace. The reply in full follows:

Johnstown, Pa., July 24. American.

New York City.

In my judgment no condition or circumstance has yet arisen which would justify the United States in entering into the European war. I feel that I speak for more than myself when I say that every possible effort should be made to maintain peace. Diplomacy has not yet exhausted its resources. The pressure of the world's opinion in behalf of humanity and the rights of neutrals is slowly but surely making itself felt and I believe that this pressure must grow stronger and stronger and more effective as the days go by. Questions of international law can scarcely be taken up for discussion with a view to changes while war is in actual progress and it seems to me that the German proposition is therefore hardly tenable. We must await the termination of the present struggle for such changes in international law as the changed condition of sea warfare may have made necessary. I am opposed to any entangling alliances on the part of the United States with other countries on this subject or any other.

Warren Worth Bailey.

Pollyanna Grows Up

Hundreds of thousands of readers of the Philadelphia Record know Pollyanna, the delightful little girl who brings sunshine into every home she enters. They made her acquaintance when Eleanor H. Porter's "Pollyanna—The Glad Book" was published serially in the Philadelphia Sunday Record.

Many readers have pronounced this the most entertaining story ever published in The Record and it has been praised everywhere by critics as being full of throbbing life and its realities and strikingly good example of genuine literature.

Now another "Pollyanna" story is about to begin in this same newspaper. The Sunday Record has succeeded in securing the rights to publish serially the new book "Pollyanna Grows Up," by the same versatile author. It will be found as fascinating as the original success and fully up to its quality. It deals with later and more mature experiences of the same charming heroine and her friends. It is a story that will bring a sure and swift response in the hearts of young and old. It is a real "sunshine book"—one which every member of the family will enjoy.

The first installment will be printed in the magazine section of the Philadelphia Record on Sunday, August 1st. Your local newsdealer will fill your order for delivery.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Bedford People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Bedford residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Miss Mollie Spidel, 172 Spring St., Bedford, says: "I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and suffered greatly from backache and rheumatic pains in my arms and limbs. I had headaches and dizzy spells. I tried many remedies, but found no relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Dull's Drug Store. They relieved me of the backaches and rheumatic pains, the headaches and dizzy spells left and I was greatly benefited in every way. I have not had any symptoms of the trouble since."

WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at National Capital.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—Secretary Redfield, of the Department of Commerce, who was at Syracuse, N. Y., on his vacation, has gone to Chicago to take personal charge of the Department's investigation of the Eastland disaster. Solicitor Thurman, of the Department, armed with all the records relating to the Eastland left here to join the Secretary in seeking the cause of the tragedy.

President Wilson, who had returned to Cornish, N. H., has been in communication with Secretary Redfield about the catastrophe, and with the President's approval, Secretary Redfield will make every effort to discover who, if anyone, was to blame.

When the steamer was inspected early in June by representatives of the United States government she was "certified" as seaworthy in respect to hull and boiler for the carriage of a certain number of persons, on a scale fluctuating with the season and with the distance from the shore. It is said that Congress may take a hand in the matter when it convenes next December.

The inevitable decision of the American Red Cross to withdraw, October 1, its doctors and nurses from the European battlefields caused intense regret on the part of the officers here. Lack of funds is given as the reason by Miss Mabel J. Boardman, chairman of the Red Cross relief committee, who announced that on the date mentioned the general fund, aggregating $1,560,000 will have been exhausted.

Of the sixteen units, all will return to the United States with the possible exception of the two in Belgium, where there is the greatest need. The Serbian sanitary commission and other work supported by special contributions will be continued as long as funds are available.

The British note in reply to the American note of March 30, defends the practices of Great Britain in the attempt to stop all trade with Germany, and rejects the United States stand, citing civil war precedents to justify the allies cause. The note contends that Great Britain's acts are consistent with the principles of international law, for which the United States is contending and that these principles have been merely given a new application to suit changed conditions on the sea and the geographical situation respecting Germany. It is unlikely that the document will change America's position.

Apprehension lest the sinking of the American steamship Leelanaw by a German submarine constituted that "deliberately unfriendly" act of which President Wilson warned Germany in his note of last week was largely dissipated here with the receipt of unofficial accounts of the procedure of the German commander before sinking the American vessel. It is considered that so far as concerns the observance of the law for which President Wilson has been contending as regards submarines, that is, visit, search, and the safe-guarding of the lives of non-combatants, the United States will have no complaint to make.

Indications are that Gen. Fred Funston's watchful waiting on the Mexican border may culminate very soon in real action. He has reported to the War Department that General Calles, of the Carranza forces, is preparing to attack Nogales, in spite of Carranza's assurance that he would avoid border fighting that might endanger American lives. It is announced here that General Funston's orders are to repel with force, if necessary, any troops whose operation threatens life on our side of the line, and that it is not necessary for him to consult Washington before proceeding to carry out his task.

Gen. Victoriano Huerta awaiting trial at El Paso, Tex., on charges of violating American neutrality, has sent another message to Chief Justice White, of the United States Supreme Court, complaining that his home there had been "violated by agents of American justice without scruple" and demanding guarantees for his family.

There has been a sharp revival of the report that President Wilson intends to summon Congress in extraordinary session to deal comprehensively with the subject of the national defense. This talk is indulged in by men so close to the President that there is abundant reason to believe, there is much more in it than mid-summer gossip. The signs all point to an extra session, else, it is asked, why should a conference between the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy be now arranged, when it could just as well take place upon the return of the Chief Executive, which will probably be ten days or two weeks hence. In this connection there is much comment about the apparent shift in the attitude of the administration with respect to foreign relations since the retirement of Mr. Bryan from the cabinet.

Representative Thelus W. Sims, of the eighth Tennessee district, who is in Washington, stirred the Tennessee political pot, which has been quietly simmering since the gubernatorial election last November, by announcing his intention to oppose Senator Luke Lea for reelection in next year's primaries. Mr. Sims issued a statement accusing Mr. Lea, who is known as the boy Senator, of chronic absenteeism and neglect of public duty.

Secretary Lansing has made public the report of Senator-elect James D. Phelan of California, of his investigation of the charges against James M. Oliver, United States minister to Santo Domingo, which resulted in the enforced resignation of the latter. The findings and opinion of Mr. Phelan are to the effect that the minister to Santo Domingo was found to be incompetent, and that there had been too close an affiliation with contractors who had their influence to get Mr. Sullivan the position.

The Court of Inquiry which investigated the charges of "gouging" on the part of certain midshipmen at the Naval Academy has submitted its report to the Secretary of the Navy. It is expected that before taking final action Secretary Daniels will confer with the President as to the proper course to pursue. In its present stage the findings are regarded as strictly confidential and there is no absolute knowledge as to which, if any, of the midshipmen were convicted of the charges, nor, in that event, what the character of the penalty recommended by the court for imposition was. It is said, however, that Secretary Daniels will be governed almost entirely by the action of the court.

An oil painting entitled "Full Moon," the work of Alfredo Helsby, an artist of Chile, has been placed on exhibition in the United States National Museum. It was presented by Senor Don Eduardo Suarez-Mujica, the Chilean ambassador here. In a letter to the director of the museum he said that the embassy disposed of a few pictures by Chilean artists of name and would feel sincerely pleased in presenting the work to the National Museum, as a mark of the interest with which the development of art in the United States is looked upon in Chile, and expressed the hope that the presentation would stimulate a greater artistic intercourse between the two countries.

Put a Stop to this Kitchen Drudgery, Now!

Oh, yes, it can be done if you are cooking on a coal or wood stove. Half the work of the kitchen is taking care of the stove. Jabbing away with the poker to get the ashes out so it will "draw" or shoveling up ashes and lugging them outdoors. And perhaps the wood box is empty when the fire has gone out, and you have to haul up coal. All this is work—the back-breaking kind that makes you "all wore out" when the last supper dish is wiped dry.

Put a stop to it today—now. Buy a

and then you will know how safe, sane, saving and satisfying a cook stove can really be.

The New Perfection is ready for instant use. It doesn't die out and have to be "made up." You put it out purposely between meals and save money and keep your kitchen clean and cool. Yes, clean, for the combustion chimneys prevent smoke and smell.

With the separate oven and fireless cooker it can do anything any other stove will do—bake, roast, broil, boil, fry, heat water for wash days and irons for ironing day.

There are lots of other improvements your dealer can explain to you, like the regulated flame control, the perfected oil reservoir, the improved wick that outlasts the ordinary kind and so on. Go today and learn what cooking comfort and economy really mean.

In the August American Magazine Philip Curtiss begins a new short serial entitled "And West is West." It is a story of California and the Expositions—a gay tale of live and of travel across the continent, full of adventure and humor. The war is admirably handled in this issue. A well-known American banker writes on "The Money Side of the War." Herbert Quick writes under the title "The Submarine as a Peacemaker." The prize-winning letters are printed in a contest entitled "The Best Thing Women Have Done for Their Town." James Montgomery Flagg contributes an amusing piece in words and pictures entitled "Shams." The two departments, "Interesting People" and "The Family's Money," are entertaining and suggestive. Fiction is contributed by John Taintor Foote, Ruth Sapinsky, Walter Prichard Eaton, Edwin L. Sabin, Lincoln Calcord, Molly Best, David Grayson and Marion Hill.

WASH FROCKS HAVE THEIR DAY

Plainer in Design and More Elaborate in Material with Accessories an Accomplished Fact in Smartness

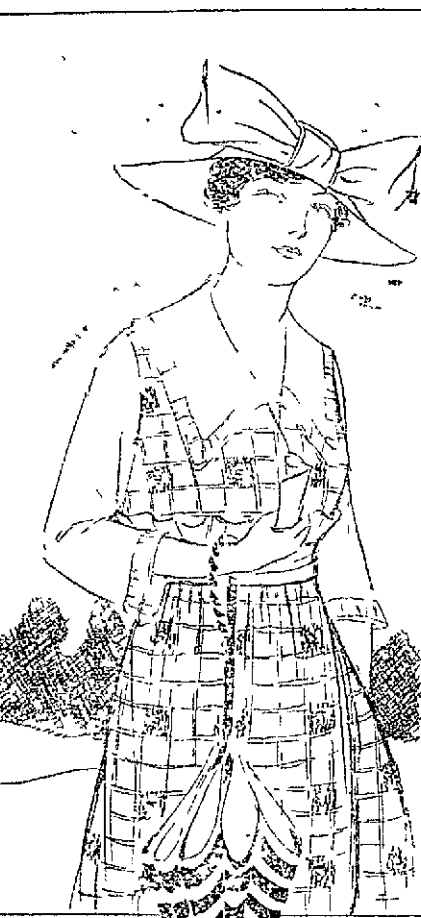

Voile the All - Popular Fabric

New York, July 28, 1915.

Wash frocks are not what they used to be. Indeed, you have to rub your eyes and look twice to believe such altogether smart garments were ever intended to touch the water. The nets, the voiles, the Swisses, and even the linens, have that mysterious something called chic in their make-up that gives them entree wherever the one-piece silk dress may go.

Skirts Overlap Waists and Vice Versa

The treatment of the waistline is one of the most important features of the frocks that the big stores are showing us. Invariably, the skirt comes up and finishes with a heading at the girdle, or the waist extends into a poplin and covers the skirt. This overlapping of waist and skirt offers a welcome relief from more pronounced joinings and is in itself a trimming for the dress.

© McCall

One of the New Figured Voiles in an Afternoon Dress, with a Smart Satin Hat and Japanese Parasol.

There are skirts with slightly raised waistlines and plain inch-and-a-half headings; others with wide girdles below the heading, and, again, the skirt is shirred or corded, with the heading extending above. The peplums, too, are treated in different ways. Many are made with the new normal waistlines, but there are still a few with the raised waistlines. Usually, with the peplum idea, the waist has a vest, leaving an open space in the peplum in front. At the waistline, there are double lines of shirring, a crushed girdle, a belt of the material, or one of the new fancy belts of patent leather and white kid.

The Popularity of Voile

It has been said, and with truth, that this is a voile season. As in silk, taffeta is the favored weave, so in wash materials voile predominates. The loose, cross-mesh lends itself readily to the quaint styles of the 1915 season. Whole windows of the large stores are given up to frocks of voile, the Avenue throngs with people who wear it, and the lesser stores on the side streets contribute their share to its popularity in exclusive models for a chosen few of New York's select society.

One model of unusual merit is a symphony in pink and white, standing on the spacious third floor of an Avenue store. The pink is a delicate salmon shade, printed in bars and embroidered in big con dots in every fourth square. This material is used for the waist cut surplice fashion, and for the skirt that comes up over the waist with a heading while the collar and cuffs are white voile, edged with a pleating of the pink and white.

Pockets a Feature in Misses' Skirts

If misses' skirts are properly pocketed, they are smart this season. Indeed, pockets in their newly-found popularity have outgrown skirts and extend into straps on the blouses. They are real pockets, conveniently placed squarely over the hip, that a girl can put her hands into and swagger down the street like her big brotherpockets that are big enough to hold the knickknacks of the handbag, and last, but not the least important, pretty enough in shape to trim the skirt.

They appear on the rough-and-ready skirt of linen, washable corduroy and cotton gabardine. There are some charming models in soft blue and rose linens, with suspender pockets; sports skirts of corduroy have pockets that button over the belt—big, roomy affairs—at the sides that will be the pride and joy of some girl's life.

Pipings for Linens

One of the smartest ways of finishing the linen skirts is with pipings.

A store that makes a specialty of junior dresses is featuring a rose linen piped in white. The skirt is made with the large patch pockets at the side that extend into suspenders, on the waist. The skirt, suspenders pockets and cuffs are of the rose linen, while the waist is white Swiss. The pocket is outlined with a piping of white that accentuates its shape and adds to the style.

Midsummer Hats of Satin

Satin hats are an innovation of the midseason. Large shapes are favored in these, and trimmings are unique and original. A broad-brimmed white satin has a flat bow inserted in sits in the front of the crown; a black satin has white velvet birds pasted flat on the crown, and stiff another white satin has a crown of wool made in four sections, each section embroidered in a different color. The last suggests the cap of the jockey set down on the top of a satin hat, with coloring even more brilliant.

Velvet Combines with Hemp and Chip

Velvet is one of the fads in summer hats. However it is seldom used alone. This season it combines with hemp and chip. One particularly attractive hat has a wide soft brim of white hemp with the low, close-fitting crown of black velvet finished at the front with a swirl of black velvet. This is held at the center with a pin stuck through diagonally. The head of the pin is a flower cut out of a flat piece of wood and painted in color. And, so it goes, each hat is a story in itself, absolutely different from its neighbor.

Oriental Parasols

Parasols are the one Oriental note in the fashions. While there are some long-handled, fluffy models shown, the Japanese parasol is by far the favorite. These are made of silk, cotton crepe and paper—blunt at the end with many ribs and flat when opened. They come in broad awning stripes, plain colors and flowered. The very latest is the "Garden of Eden." This is a curious affair with black ebony handle, white ivory ribs and a white crepe top printed in black to represent Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, with all the trees and animals present.

Tapestried Handbags

Gate-top handbags are still popular. Rare bits of tapestry are now used for the bottom, with gorgeous tassels to finish them off. The rich tones of the material oddly contrast with the light dresses. There is one bag in charming Oriental effect, with peacock coloring of gold and purple combined with dark red. This is finished with a gold tassel and heavy gold cord at the top. Other bags have bracelets at the top in place of the cord; and for those who do not care for the deep tones of the tapestry, there are beaded effects and silver mesh bags in the same gate-top style.

SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION
LOOK UP SITE OF MASSACRE

David B. Weaver and S. B. Stoler of Saxton, Local Historians of Indian Days.

On Friday, July 23, Dr. Americus Enfield and J. Reed Irvine, President and Secretary of Fort Bedford Chapter No. 4 of the Sons of the American Revolution, motored to Fisher's Summit in company with W. S. Reed and the Doctor's two grandsons, Thomas and George, to look over the scene of the massacre of Captain Phillips Rangers in Woodcock Valley. They were met by David B. Weaver, Wilson Weaver and S. B. Stoler who piloted them over this historic spot and pointed out the places as mentioned in the following story of this horrible event in the early history of Bedford County.

Mr. Weaver's grandmother was born within two hundred rods of the scene of the massacre, just eight years after. From her own lips they have much of the history of this event. Mr. Stoler's father related to him the same story as it came to him as a young boy and in early manhood from his father and his people who lived in the community and knew of the occurrence. Mr. Stoler stated that while on a squirrel hunt with his father many years ago, his father pointed out to him the very trees to which the soldiers were tied.

With these three old citizens, whose word cannot be questioned, they went in the auto, along the highway leading from Huntingdon to Saxton to the site where the old stone house stood and were told the following history:

"During the days of the Revolution, while many of the men were serving under Washington against the British, the Indians took advantage of the conditions and made continual warfare against the settlers on the frontier. To hold them in check, Colonel John Piper was induced by the influential men of the section to grant a Captain's commission to a Mr. Phillips, a man of energy, skill and experience as a woodsman and Captain Phillips at once proceeded to organize a company of men. He met with little success however and on July 15th, 1780, he had succeeded in getting only ten men besides his fourteen year old son Elijah to enlist. Their names were Philip and Hugh Skelly, P. and T. Sanders, Richard Shirley, M. Davis, Thomas Gaitrell, Daniel Kelley, Michael Skelly and the name of the tenth man, after a diligent search of all available data has not been able to be recorded.

"With these men the Captain determined to scout through the Woodcock Valley in order to protect the farmers while harvesting their grain. The party marched from the Cove across the mountain into the Woodcock Valley where they found most of the houses abandoned but no signs of Indians; continuing on they came to the house of Frederick Heater, which had been abandoned. They decided to remain over night in this house, which was built of stone and had been provided with loop holes and well fitted for a fort, for which it had been used at times when the Indians were about. A light shower of rain had fallen that day and when the men awoke after a sound sleep the next morning and had started to prepare their breakfast, one of the men opened the door and discovered that they were surrounded by at least sixty Indians who had tracked them to the house. The red skins began to fire on the house and the soldiers returned their fire so that soon a hot fight was in progress and continued until about the middle of the afternoon. Two Indians were killed and two wounded when Philip Skelly shot the chief through the left cheek, at a distance of a hundred yards. This made the savages furious and they determined to have vengeance.

"They were not able by any ruse or strategy to get the men to leave the house so they resorted to their cunning and by stealth crept up near enough to the house so as to enable them to shoot arrows to which they had fastened burning leaves, on to the roof and in this way set fire to it. The soldiers carried all the water they had and succeeded in putting out the fire, but the Indians continued to shoot the burning arrows and finally succeeded in getting the fire started in several places and the house was soon in flames. The roof was all ablaze and the fire was in the upper part of the house, yet Phillips and his men stood their ground and would not come out until finally they were promised, while certain death was sure if they stayed in the house, that if they would surrender their lives should be spared.

"At last Phillips agreed to this and his men came out just before the fire fell to the lower story of the house. The men were requested to hand over their arms which they did. They were then demanded to allow their arms to be pinioned behind them. This they protested against but were forced to submit on the ground that some might escape if left untied. The party then started on a march across the mountain, presumably to go to Kittanning, the rendezvous of the savages at that time. They had gone only about half a mile when five or six Indians who had Captain Phillips and his son were ordered to continue while the remainder of the party halted. Here they tied the ten men to saplings and amused themselves by shooting arrows into them. That the men were not all dead when left by the savages was evident from the condition of their arms, showing a terrible struggle before death mercifully put an end to their suffering. Before leaving them the Indians took the scalp of each man.

"Captain Phillips and his son were taken on and were finally released. The fate of the soldiers was not known until the following Tuesday when the settlers came back and were attracted by the appearance of a flock of buzzards near by. An investigation was made and the men found as they had been left by the savages. The condition of the bodies was such that they could not be moved and holes were dug beside the trees, the bodies released and they fell into the holes where after being covered up they remain to this day with nothing to mark the spot but the memory of these devoted men and a locust post placed there several years ago in the hope that a fund will be found to place a suitable marker to tell to future generations of the sterling worth of these fearless patriots."

As interesting and corroborative of the above we feel that we cannot and should not close without mention of David B. Weaver and his ancestors. Mr. Weaver, now past 75 years of age, has been for several years devoting considerable time and funds towards having a suitable monument erected to mark this spot. He has been before the State Legislature on three occasions and succeeded in having an appropriation passed through both houses only to be vetoed by Governor Tener because of insufficient funds. He has been before the Philadelphia Historical Society and has in every way in his power given his time to have this spot properly marked, and now that he feels the weight of years upon him, he is still clinging to the fond hope that this will be accomplished and has asked Fort Bedford Chapter to take it up where he has left off and carry it to completion.

Mr. Weaver says that his grandfather, Christian Weaver, died in 1849, and in or about 1854 his grandmother came to make her home with his father. It was while here in his home that he heard his grandmother tell the following incident, which so clearly bears testimony to the truth of the above history as related by her as well as the Stolars and others who are descendants of old settlers of this picturesque valley.

"I was born about two hundred rods from the place where the Indians killed the man, about eight years after the massacre and remember very distinctly about our people telling about it and pointing out the house and the place they were killed and buried. When I was a girl about ten years old, my mother sent brother John and me to the woods to get some fire-wood that lay on the ground. We had gone quite a distance when I noticed an old log lying down. The top of the log had no bark on it but the undersides had some loose bark still hanging to the trunk. When I went to the log, I saw the end of a musket sticking out and called to brother John to come to me, and at the same time I took hold of the musket and pulled it out. Brother John hunted among the leaves around the log and found another musket. We took these muskets down to the house and as soon as father saw them he said, 'Why children, these guns belonged to the Indians that killed Captain Phillips' scouts. After killing these men, they had more guns than they could carry and they (the Indians) left them where you found them. Likely these guns were inferior to the guns used by Phillips' scouts.' Grandmother said that these guns had been under the log for eighteen years and that the gun stocks were quite rotted by the exposure and that the old flint locks were still in place. I asked what had become of them and she said they were about the house for a number of years but in moving and changing about, they had become lost and no one knows where they are." Mr. Weaver's grandmother's maiden name was Maria Eicher and her father's farm was next to the Fisher farm on which the scouts are buried.

This is one of a number of the historical spots of Bedford County which the Sons of the American Revolution are interested in. They are anxious that all these places be properly marked and preserved. The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is composed of men whose ancestors took some part in the gaining of the independence of our country. Bedford County has many men who are eligible to membership and by becoming a part of this organization they will be serving their country in a very practical way. "In many there is strength." The Chapter is weak in members and needs the help of every patriotic man to accomplish the work it is undertaking. We should have pride enough in our ancestry to look it up and put ourselves as well as our children and children's children on the Roll of Honor. The Society will eventually become the Historical Society of America and will be means of preserving the most valuable heritages which our fathers have by their sacrifices, handed down to us. Let us be up and doing while we can for in a few short years, landmarks will be obliterated which never can be found, unless we in this generation take it in hand and do it while it can be done.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Daily Thought.

Be not angry that you cannot make others what you wish them to be, since you cannot make yourself what you wish to be.—Thomas a-Kempe.

William F. Easter
For County Commissioner

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Commissioner, subject to the decision of the Democratic voters of Bedford County, and pledge myself to support the ticket nominated.

For years I have been interested in public affairs, and I pledge myself, if elected, to work for the interest of all the people.

Being a practical stone mason, and having helped to build 14 bridges in this county, and having repaired a great many, I can and will give the county, if elected Commissioner, the benefit of my practical experience, and I shall insist upon having all work done thoroughly and economically. I shall favor the building of a bridge where it is deemed necessary by the taxpayers living in the vicinity of the proposed bridge.

As a farmer and taxpayer, I realize that the taxes are too high, and I pledge myself, if elected, to work for economy, efficiency, lower taxes (a 6 or 7 mill tax), and a square deal for all the people.

I ask for your vote and your influence. I am a Democrat, and have always been a worker in the party.

Bear in mind, I am "for the folks, not the factions."

Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM F. EASTER,
Bedford, Pa.

The last note to Germany seems to be to the point and yet friendly. The German people seem to regard it as an ultimatum and are incensed over it. The President has ordered a report on the ability of the army and navy. Submarines are being constructed and the government is buying heavily in munitions and war material and supplies. This is evidence of a bluff or anticipation of hostilities.

The Out of Doors Man

The fellow with the big, tough muscles who can chop trees all day and lift the butt end of a hard log, is a hearty liver in everything he tackles. He likes his tobacco rich, sweet, mellow and Long Cut—good for both smoking and chewing. He uses because it's got the right stuff in it.

Satisfaction—for a sturdy man—can come from real tobacco only. Insipid mixtures don't appeal to a man with real tobacco hunger.

FIVE BROTHERS is pure Southern Kentucky leaf, with the "body" for a real smoke or chew, rich and pleasing. It takes three to five years to age the tobacco in FIVE BROTHERS; the process can't be hurried. That's the reason FIVE BROTHERS is so ripe, mellow and healthful.

Shall the Government Manufacture Munitions of War? Yes

(By Congressman C. H. Tavenner)

The question has been raised as to the patriotism of those who insist upon the government manufacture of all munitions of war, including battleships. I can not see how it can be contended that it is any more patriotic to advocate two battleships to be built by private contractors, with huge profits to the builders, than it is to advocate two battleships to be constructed by the government, which policy means that for every dollar expended for battleships we will get a dollar's worth of battleship, and that the men who actually do the work of building the ships will receive higher wages and work under far better conditions than if the contracts are given to the Shipbuilding Trust.

The "big-navy-to-be-built-by-private-contractors" policy will meet with the approval of the armoring, ammunition ring and the Shipbuilding Trust. It will also be eminently satisfactory to the Navy League of the United States, which organization has from the first been an adjunct to the house of Morgan, and is constantly agitating a larger and larger navy, but, mind you, not a larger navy to be built at the lowest possible cost with a government armor plant, and in government shipyards, but a larger navy to be built by the armor ring, the ammunition ring, and the Shipbuilding Trust.

Ever since I have been a Member of Congress I have been receiving literature from this "big navy" lobby, and finally I determined to call the attention of its officers to the fact that their plans for a larger navy are tainted, and will continue to be tainted until they advocate the government manufacture of all munitions of war. On January 16 of last year I addressed a letter to A. H. Dadmun, the secretary of the league, in which, among other things, I said:

"Assuming that you are in good faith in this agitation and really desire the largest possible navy for patriotic reasons, I am going to take the liberty of suggesting to you that if you will inaugurate a movement for the government manufacture of all munitions of war, including all battleships, your campaign will strike a much more responsive chord with both members of Congress and the people.

"In other words, if the government is to do all the manufacturing of munitions of war, including battleships, the point can not then be successfully raised that the agitation is for the benefit of the armor ring, the ammunition ring, and the Shipbuilding Trust.

"But if you do not advocate the government manufacture of all munitions of war, including battleships, you can not successfully deny that you are carrying on a propaganda which means millions and millions of dollars of extortionate profits to the

I hardly expect readers to fall out of their chairs in amazement when I report that the Navy League has not accepted my suggestion.

Many Prominent Patriots Identified With the Navy League

I desire now to present some information as to who is behind the Navy League:

J. Pierpont Morgan was until his death one of the directors, and intensely interested in the league's work, to which he was a liberal contributor. Herbert L. Satterlee, general counsel for the league is a son-in-law and heir of Mr. Morgan. J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., is one of the active directors of the league.

Gen. Horace Porter is president of the league. He was for many years an officer of the Pullman Company, which is a Morgan corporation.

Charles G. Glover is treasurer of the league. He is president of the Riggs National Bank, which is closer to Wall Street than any other bank in Washington.

Col. Robert L. Thompson is chairman of the executive committee of the league. He is an eminent financier of New York, whose great interests generally coincide with the colossal undertakings of the Morgan group. He is also the head—being chairman of the board—of the International Nickel Company, and holds the honorable post of president of the New York Metal Exchange.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR AUGUST 1

QUEEN OF SHEBA VISITS SOLOMON.

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 10:1-10, 13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Wisdom is better than rubies. Prov. 8:11.

The visit of this wealthy queen from the region of southern Arabia has always appealed to the imaginations of men Solomon's kingdom was at the apex of its glory. There were no wars, Israel's borders were extended and the temple and those other wonderful buildings had all been completed.

The chief value of this lesson is not in Solomon's wisdom nor in what this queen saw and heard, but rather it is in what has, is being, and will be done by Christ, of whom Solomon is a type and who seized upon all of this glory to teach us a great lesson (see Matt. 23:34). Caesar's famous phrase, slightly altered, is in this connection quite applicable—"I came, I saw, I (was) conquered."

I. "Hard Questions," vv. 1-3. Solomon is here a great type of Christ. (a) His greatness could not be hid (Mark 7:24). Solomon's fame filled the known world (I Kings, 4:34). The fame of Solomon's wisdom, philosophy, proverbs, poems and knowledge of God (v. 1) drew to his court this queen, and we must recall that it was probably a 1,500-mile to some camel-back journey for her to come to his court (b) She brought a "very great store" (v. 10) of gifts, which, according to oriental custom, she presented to Solomon. Our best gift to our King is ourselves (2 Cor. 8:5). (c) She came to learn of "the name of the Lord" who had done so much for Solomon and his people; to learn wisdom for the guidance of herself and her people. We come to a King who possesses all wisdom (Matt 12:42). Solomon had a wonderful missionary opportunity. God is today sending heart hungry people to this land from the most remote parts of the earth. Are we using our privilege to point them to the true God and to Jesus, his son? This queen did not believe what she had heard (v. 7) and resolved to find out for herself. In this she is a rebuke to those more favorably situated who, though constantly beholding the work of God in human hearts and lives, still say, "I do not believe." The queen of Sheba will rise up in judgment against all who refuse to "come and see" (John 1:39, 45-51; Matt. 12:42). (d) This visit is a prophecy of that day when the kings of Sheba and Seba will come with their gifts for the greater son of David (Psalm 72:10, 15; Isa. 60:6-9). The wisdom which our king bestows is eternal life, "to know him" (Prov. 2:2-6; John 17:3).

II. "Had Seen All," vv. 4-7. When she had listened to Solomon's wisdom and heard the answers to her questions, the solutions to her problems, and had witnessed the wonders of his temple, court and ministers, "there was no more spirit (breath) in her." (Cf. Josh. 5:1.) And similar experience came to those three who went to the Mount of Transfiguration with Jesus. Solomon's wisdom is fulfilled in Christ (Col. 2:3). "The house that he built" is a type of that temple he is building of living stones (I Peter 2:4, 5; Matt. 16:18). "The meat of his table" is excelled by the food on our king's table, the word of life (Jer. 15:16; Ps. 119:103), his own body (John 6:55). Our king, too, has his servants (Eph. 2:6; Rev. 3:21). Their "appeal" is not to be compared with the "robe of his righteousness" and our "standing" (2 Cor. 5:21) is more exalted than that of any at Solomon's, or other earthly courts. We are not servants but "friends," yet we are "his ministers" (Rev. 5:10; I Pet. 2:9). Various translations suggest (v. 5), "and his burnt offering which he offered in the house of the lord."

III. Praises, vv. 8-19, 13 (1) By testimony, vv. 8, 9. "Happy are they men" who listen to such wisdom, who dwell in the midst of such achievements. One of the greatest joys is to converse with the wise and the good. Our happiness is in our privilege of standing before Christ and to hear his wisdom (Luke 10:39-42; Prov. 13:20; 3:13, 14); no servant is debarred (John 12:26). The queen glorified the source of Solomon's glory, which was all the gift of Jehovah's grace (see 2 Sam. 12:24, 25 R. V. marg., Matt. 3:17; Isa. 42:1). She did not see the oppression of the people, the temptation to luxury and the decline in religious life which so soon led to decay after Solomon's death. When our king shall reign he will "do judgment and justice."

Even so our king blesses us abundantly "above all, we can ask or think" (see John 10:28; 17:22). The kingdom of heaven is greater than Solomon's (Matt. 12:42) (a) in wisdom (I Cor. 1:24); (b) in riches (Eph. 3:8); (c) in power (Heb. 2:8); (d) in blessings (2 Chron. 1:15, cf. Phil. 4:19) and this kingdom is "among you."

Men "see" what they are searching after; they receive true knowledge through experience. We may see this kingdom and its working if we let him, who is the "light of the world," enter our hearts and lives.
